

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

At the Woman's Club yesterday afternoon "Social Service" was the theme of an address given by Professor William Henry Heck, of the University of Virginia. Professor Heck declared that everybody in the performance of daily work and duty must help some one, and in that way render "social service." But, he remarked, he said, for Southern people of today to rouse themselves to the performance of a higher order of "social service," the kind that made Washington and Jefferson great and respected, who over and over again helped others by their influence through precept and example.

Continuing, he commented upon the "social service" rendered by women in educational matters, in their intercourse with husbands and brothers, and in the rearing and training of children.

The attendance was large and interested. The reception after the lecture was over was an unusually agreeable one. Miss Lou Leigh, Miss Lizzie Plummer, Mrs. Harry Davis and Miss Mary Elizabeth Moore were the hostesses of the afternoon. Miss Leigh and Miss Plummer presiding at the coffee table.

The lecture committee of the club is congratulating itself on having concluded an engagement with the celebrated authority on forestry, Mr. C. W. Pinchot, of Washington, D. C., who will lecture before the club February 24th on "Forestry."

ELEVEN APES AFTER HIM

Terrified Man Begged Police to Save His Life.

"Piece Headquarters" came in quavering accents over the telephone in that office the other afternoon, and the officer replying picked up his ears.

"Yes," he answered. "Watcher want?"

"Eleven baboons been chasin' me all day, an' they're about to git me," came back in trembling tones. "Sh, they're comin' now," and he hung up the receiver.

The detective scratched his head. "Them dern Ferrari apes got loose?" he thought, and sat down to await developments.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

LEAVES BENCH TO RESUME PRACTICE

Distinguished Circuit Judge Surprises Officials by Sending Letter of Resignation.

GOVERNOR GOES TO LAUREL

Inspects Reformatory in Company With Members of Prison Association.

Hon. Robert C. Jackson, of Wytheville, surprised public officials yesterday by tendering to Governor Swanson his resignation as judge of the Twenty-first Judicial Circuit, to take effect on January 1, 1908.

Judge Jackson, who is regarded as one of the ablest jurists in the circuit bench in Virginia, had given no previous intimation of his intentions to retire, and his letter to the Governor was unexpected about the Capitol. He gives as his reason for leaving the bench, his desire to return to the practice of his profession, which he believes will be more remunerative and perhaps not so irksome. He has served less than a year of a new term, which will not expire until 1914.

Inasmuch as the Legislature will meet within a week after Judge Jackson's resignation becomes effective, the Governor will not appoint his successor, but will leave that matter to the lawmakers.

It is not improbable that Hon. A. A. Campbell, of Wythe, will be an applicant.

Still Gathering Data.
The Governor spent the forenoon in his office and received a number of callers. Among them was Hon. M. B. Booker, of Halifax, who remained in the executive office for some time.

In the afternoon the Governor visited the Auditor's office, gathering data for his message to the Legislature, and later went out to Laurel in an automobile with Messrs. Charles Hutzler and other members of the Virginia Prison Association. He made an inspection of the reformatory and was greatly interested in the boys, and somewhat astonished at the wonderful progress being made in the industrial department. He found the institution in fine shape and expressed himself as being highly pleased with the manner in which it is being managed.

Brief Capital Notes.
Colonel Joseph Button, State Insurance Commissioner, was in his office yesterday, having returned from New York, where he attended the meeting of life insurance officials. He saw former President Grover Cleveland and heard him speak.

Colonel Button will leave for Louisville next Sunday or Monday to attend a meeting of a special committee by the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners to consider the question of taxation of insurance companies. The committee consists of Messrs. Barrett, of Kentucky; Barry, of Michigan; Button, of Virginia; Crouse, of Maryland; Potter, of Illinois; Cullen, of Iowa; Kelsey, of New York; and Hartigan, of Minnesota. The meeting will be held in the Seelbach Hotel next Wednesday.

The State Board of Education will meet here on December 18th. The chief business will be the election of a division superintendent of schools to succeed Sena Floy W. Kline, who has been re-elected by the Virginia Legislature. There are three candidates for the place. They are Messrs. Greene, Jordan and Hawkins.

the same voice called up again.
"Come quickly," the man panted. "They almost got me that time. They're three more over." He again hung up the receiver before the detective could locate him, but it was only a few minutes before he called back. "That's the whole African jungle was almost upon him, and he shrieked with fear. 'Come quick,' he yelled, 'as they'll git me.'"

The detective finally located the man, and then one officer went out to run him down, while the other stayed behind to receive calls. Wherever the searching detective went the hunted man had just gone, leaving behind a wild story of being chased by wild animals. That thing had been so remarkably, and the detective caught on.

Before the man was finally located, however, he had been hunted by every animal known to menageries, and had been in dire peril of his life.

He was taken to a hospital, where every nurse seemed to have a baboon and every doctor an ape. He was seeing things in great variety.
